Janssen has also made financial donations to independent charitable foundations that assist patients who are underinsured and in financial need with treatment-related expenses. In keeping with our donor agreements and applicable regulatory guidance, we will only disclose aggregate data on our charitable giving and do not publicize information on donations to specific foundations and disease states. In 2019, we contributed approximately $130.2 million in donations to independent charitable foundations, enabling them to provide assistance with medication-related copays to patients with cancer and autoimmune diseases.
